Getting the Most out of Your LiveTalk

*Presented by Celine Greene and Brian Klaas
Center for Teaching and Learning*

15 January 2020

Today's Agenda

- ▶ Define the LiveTalk and its impact to online learning
- ▶ LiveTalk Experiences
- ▶ Preparation for a LiveTalk
 - ▶ Emphasis on familiarity with Zoom
- ▶ Methods to engage and manage students' participation
- ▶ Recommendations for after the LiveTalk

Our goal: to help you get the most out of your next LiveTalk!

The JHSPH LiveTalk

LiveTalks are:

- ▶ Online sessions, similar to webinars
- ▶ Scheduled through CTL's link in CoursePlus
- ▶ Supported through JHSPH Multimedia
- ▶ Linked through CoursePlus

Why is a LiveTalk Important to Course Design?

- ▶ Engagement – the “Why” of learning
 - ▶ Emphasis of goals & objectives
 - ▶ Building a community of learners
- ▶ Action and Expression – the “How” of learning
 - ▶ Opportunity for expression and communication
- ▶ Representation – the “What” of learning
 - ▶ Alternatives to traditional, one-way transfer of knowledge (text or video)
- ▶ Creates a sense of presence, stimulation, expression & significance

Your Experiences

Examples

Vaccine Trials: The Present

- Third Wave: 2007 -
 - Combinations of different immune responses
 - RV144 trial showed modest but promising efficacy (31.2%)
 - Current vaccine trials
 - HVTN 702
 - Phase 2b/3 efficacy and safety trial for the same vaccine regimen as RV144
 - Results expected by July 2021
 - HVTN 115
 - Phase 1 efficacy trial with four-part protein vaccine EnvSeq
 - EnvSeq-1: a sequence of four gp120 envelope protein isolated from a patient
 - Added adjuvant to help immune system respond better

Main Text: (i) Conclusion: 5 points out of 65

i. Provide a brief conclusion that clearly summarizes the overall rationale in support of your recommended option.

- ▶ Do your reader the service of offering your closing thoughts.
- ▶ Show us, in sum, how your analysis has progressed toward a better ethical understanding of the options available to the actor.
- ▶ If any points of ethical judgment remain unresolved from your discussion of components (j)-(h), that's OK - just state them and offer any final thoughts.

Body:

Dear Class,

Hope you all can make it to today's live talk. As usual we expect you to have a working laptop, microphone, and headphones. Please be in a place and situation where you can speak with minimal background noise. A desk or table would be a good idea too.

TODAY's livetalk includes a skills lab. You will need to have 5 blank pieces of paper and 1-5 felt tip pens to draw diagrams of a system on the paper. Colors are optional. You won't have time to run for these supplies. Be prepared!

Talk soon,

Engaging Your Students

Keeping the Focus

- ▶ Assign TA or Faculty to monitor Chat
- ▶ Welcome students & guests
 - ▶ Encourage video
- ▶ Provide overview/agenda of session
 - ▶ Reiterate the objective
- ▶ Set the tone by modeling the mindset
 - ▶ Welcome different perspectives
 - ▶ Have a role for the students in the conversation

- ▶ Do not get side-tracked
- ▶ Be mindful of time
- ▶ Bring LiveTalk to positive conclusion
 - ▶ Unanswered questions?
 - ▶ Create opportunity to continue the conversation
 - ▶ Reiterate objective and next steps

Make it Worth Their While

- ▶ Make certain to draw connections & a clear rationale from prep activities to the LiveTalk
- ▶ Be prepared to address questions posed before LiveTalk (email or Discussion Forum)
- ▶ Acknowledge questions, but only provide answers if you are prepared to do so
- ▶ Do not let the LiveTalk be the end of the conversation

Tools and Techniques in Zoom

- ▶ Polls can:
 - ▶ Provide quick assessment of comprehension
 - ▶ Guide the direction of the conversation
 - ▶ Foster debate (e.g., “55% chose this, 45% chose that: explain why you feel this way”)
 - ▶ Give feedback on session
- ▶ Breakout Rooms
 - ▶ Allow for group work
 - ▶ Continue a focused conversation at a smaller scale
 - ▶ Promote students to the presenters and facilitators (hosts)
- ▶ Chat
 - ▶ Provides one-way, synchronous written communication

Wrapping Up and Follow-up

Ending on a High Note

- ▶ Have you...
 - ▶ Been mindful of the time?
 - ▶ Acknowledged and noted any unanswered questions?
 - ▶ Met your objective?
 - ▶ Made the LiveTalk worth the students' time?
- ▶ Make sure to:
 - ▶ Reiterate objective
 - ▶ State next steps
 - ▶ Thank guest(s) and students
- ▶ Don't forget you're being recorded!

Bringing the Session Back to the Course

- ▶ Consider sending follow-up email
 - ▶ Emphasize objective and next steps again
 - ▶ Remind students about recording
- ▶ Conversations can be continued in Discussion Forum
 - ▶ Unanswered questions? Unresolved points of discussion/debate?
 - Encourage dialogue
- ▶ Tie LiveTalk objective into continued progression of course and learning outcomes

Remaining Questions?

Thank you!
